GENERAL AVIATION NEWSKeeping the spirit of flight alive

Posted on Jul 09, 2012 03:14 pm by GAN Staff

Story and Photos By JEAN-PIERRE BONN I like to call myself an aviation freak. Though I never became a pilot, I have been an aviation lover since I was a teenager, but it was not until some decades later that I stumbled into general aviation. In 2000, a neighbor began... Read More

Aplomado Falcon chicks released at Texas state park

Posted on Jul 09, 2012 04:29 pm by Janice Wood

The Aplomado Falcon is regaining a foothold in parts of Texas where they disappeared more than a half-century ago. On July 1, biologists began releasing captive-bred Aplomado Falcons to the wild for the first time at Mustang Island State Park. The birds were flown to the park by volunteer pilots... Teens to build plane at Oshkosh

Posted on Jul 09, 2012 04:15 pm by Janice Wood

Aviators By Design is sponsoring efforts by the teens of Aviation Explorer Post 9866, which resides at Central County Airport near Iola, Wisconsin, in building a Zenith CH 750 kit airplane in the Homebuilders Hangar on the AirVenture grounds. The goal of the AirVenture project is not to complete the... Read More

The FIRM List from ByDanJohnson.com

FIRM List ByDanJohnson is a premium resource directory composed solely of verified LSA businesses. All listed companies offering Flight Instruction (FI) or Rental (R)

were personally contacted to confirm the N-number of their SLSA (Special Light-Sport Aircraft), qualifying ELSA (converted ultralight trainer), or otherwise certificated aircraft that can be used for Sport Pilot flight instruction including solo. Maintenance organizations (M) were verified to assure they possess an A&P Mechanic or LSA

Repairman certificate. Some maintenance organizations listed are qualified to work on multiple LSA brands; the "Make" column reflects this situation as appropriate.
